THE BH3 BOOK STORE

"Bergen Hash House Harriers - The Hash Weekends"

28.02.2011 Foggy Publications Foggy Glasses

Content

- What is Hashing?
- The Killer Hill Weekend
- The Scuba Hash Weekend
- The Bjorøy Hash Weekend
- The Mjølfjell Hash Weekend
- The Ski Hash Weekend
- BH3 on the Internet
- The BH3 Hall of Fame

Side

What is hashing?

The Hash House Harriers is an international group of non-competitive running, social Hashing originated in December 1938 in Kuala Lumpur, then in the Federated Malay States (now Malaysia), when a group of British colonial officers and expatriates began meeting on Monday evenings to run, in a fashion patterned after the traditional British Paper Chase or "Hare and Hounds", to rid themselves of the excesses of the previous weekend. The original members included Albert Stephen (A.S.) Ignatius "G" Gispert, Cecil Lee, Frederick "Horse" Thomson, Ronald "Torch" Bennett and John Woodrow. A. S. Gispert is recognised as the Father of Hashing.

After meeting for some months, they were informed by the Registrar of Societies that as a "group," they would require a Constitution and an official name. A. S. Gispert suggested the name "Hash House Harriers" after the Selangor Club Annex, where the men were billeted, known as the "Hash House" for its notoriously monotonous food. Apart from the excitement of chasing the hare and finding the trail, harriers reaching the end of the trail would be rewarded with beer, ginger beer and cigarettes.

The Constitution of the Hash House Harriers recorded on a club registration card dated 1950 still applies to today's Hashers:

- To promote physical fitness among our members
- To get rid of weekend hangovers
- To acquire a good thirst and to satisfy it in beer
- To persuade the older members that they are not as old as they feel

Hashing died out during World War II after the invasion of Malaya, but was re-started after the war by most of the original group, minus A. S. Gispert, who was killed on 11 February 1942 in the Japanese invasion of Singapore, an event commemorated by many kennels by an annual Gispert Memorial Run held on this day.

The growth of Hashing remained small until 1962, when Ian Cumming founded a kennel in Singapore. The idea then spread through the Far East, Europe, Australia, and New Zealand, and North America, booming in popularity during the mid-1970s. At present, there are almost two thousand kennels in all parts of the world, with members distributing newsletters, directories, and magazines and organizing regional and world Hashing events.

This book celebrates Hash Weekends organised by BERGEN HASH HOUSE HARRIERS, one of the most northerly Hash kennels in the world.

Side 3

Side 2

What is the Killer Hill Weekend?

What is the Killer nill Weekerlar.

Bergen, the home city of BH3, is situated on the West Coast of Norway among mountains and fjords. Sometime in the past, probably due to the lack of having something better to do, the people of Bergen started counting the mountains surrounding their city. According to some sources, the first to name them "The Seven Mountains" was probably the famous writer and playwright Ludvig Holberg (1694-1754), who was inspired by the Seven Hills of Rome. As a result of this medieval activity, Bergen became known as "Byen mellom de syv fjell" or The City between the Seven Mountains.

The local ramblers association organise a hike up and down all seven mountains once a year. We prefer to conquer one mountain at a time: This is the BH3 Killer Hill Weekend.

By 2010 all the 7 City Mountains had been conquered twice:

- Fløyfjellet (400 m 1312 ft) Lovstakken (477 m 1565 ft) Lyderhorn (396 m 1299 ft) Rundemanen (568 m 1864 ft) Damsgårdsfjellet (317 m 1040 ft) Sandviksfjellet (417 m 1368 ft) Ulriken (643 m 2110 ft)

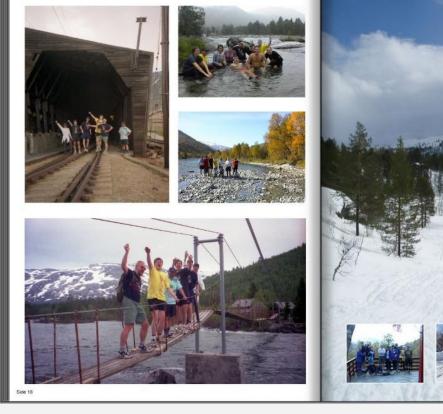

EXAMPLE

EXAMPLE

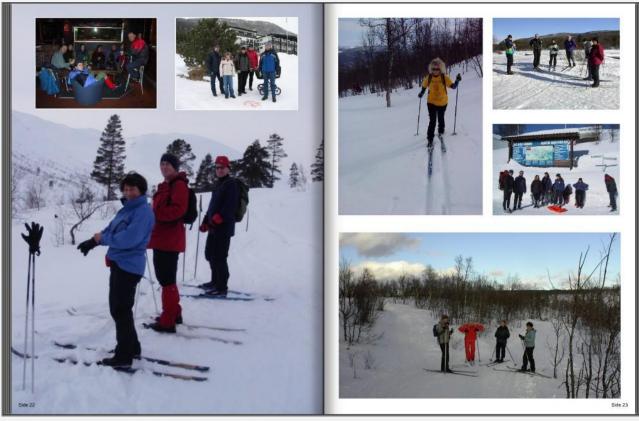

EXAMPLE

EXAMPLE

